Benefits of Hemp-Derived CBD

CBD, or cannabinoidol is one of the many healing, natural compounds found in many plants like marijuana, hemp, broccoli and even kale. It can be used to ease nausea, arthritis, anxiety, inflammation, seizures, sleep issues, stress and more without any psychoactive side effects of feeling high, stoned or uncomfortable.

Even though the hemp plant is low in THC, it's CBD levels are abundant - making it a perfect plant to extract from.

This ancient plant compound works internally with our endocannabinoid system - which literally translates to 'inner cannabis' to deliver fast acting relief to many ailments.

Life Flower

Shea and Scott Leon started making healing products in their family kitchen just over a year ago with the intention of easing the pain of their terminally-ill grandmother in her last months of life. They knew the power of CBD could help her substantially, but the quality of products on the market varied so greatly that they decided to create their own.

Due to high demand, Shea quit her job to create full-time and LIFE FLOWER CARE was born soon after along with a passionate commitment to handcraft trustworthy, natural products that bridge the gap between modern living and ancient healing.

All of their high-vibrational offerings are formulated with organic hemp-derived CBD, high quality essential oils and locally, sustainably sourced ingredients.

With the help of their beautiful daughters, Malani and Shane, they strive to make unique products that highlight the importance of healing the body, mind and spirit as a whole.

For so many people the hemp plant has enhanced quality of life and even given life back after it's been taken away by illness, stress or pain.

To us, hemp is so much more than a plant - it's a life flower.

Our logo features a tree, a torus - the three dimensional symbol of energy - and a human, bound together. Their unity represents the undeniable, energetic connection between human and nature. We strongly believe that every imbalance we have as humans has a gentle solution provided by the earth and our goal is to connect people back to that truth.

Life Flower is a family owned and operated business located in Orange County, California. We handcraft all of our products in small batches from natural, ethically sourced ingredients with therapeutic grade essential oils and absolutely no artificial fragrances, chemicals, or preservatives ever.

Our products are a reflection of our core belief that Mother Nature has been divinely designed with the solutions humans need to thrive and live our best and most meaningful lives. Here at Life Flower, we are committed to creating synergistic, high-vibrational wellness products that improve the quality of life on all levels - physically, spiritually, and mentally.
